

International Student Orientation

ARRIVE BY August 5, 2018 | BEGINS ON August 6, 2018

What is International Student Orientation (ISO)?

International Student Orientation (ISO) is a program created for all newly-admitted international students attending Penn State University.

AM I REQUIRED TO ATTEND?

Yes, attendance is mandatory for all international students, including those who are transferring from other U.S. schools.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT ORIENTATION WILL COVER...

- Immigration requirements
- On- and off-campus resources
- How to pay tuition

International Student Orientation is a transition program designed to provide you with the tools to excel academically and socially at the University. Orientation is the perfect opportunity to make friends with other international and American students.

What is next?

Monitor your email (both personal & Penn State issued accounts). Look for emails from Student Engagement (gset@psu.edu). These emails will provide you with everything you need to know regarding orientation, from accommodations to health insurance requirements.
